Only The Young

You're only young once. But while you're young, it's easy to miss the beauty of it. In this series, Only The Young, we'll look at what it means to own your faith, how to decide what your years of being young will be about, and why we all need the wisdom of someone older. The purpose of this series is to help students see how God wants them to make the most of being young.

ENGAGE IN EVERYDAY MOMENTS TOGETHER

Morning Time

Start your teen's day off with encouraging them with a specific example of how you've seen them show kindness or compassion recently.

Their Time

As your teen grows, it may be easy to forget they are still young and learning. Determine where you should give grace and where you should draw good boundaries. (Sometimes that's not easy to see.)

Meal Time

At a meal this week, have everyone respond to this: "Tell us about a favorite memory from when you were a kid."

Bed Time

As you pray, ask God to help your teen navigate all the challenges of growing up and to grow stronger in their relationship with Jesus.
